Have a standard agenda format. This helps members to know what to expect and what they will need to prepare.

- Send out the agenda at least one week before the meeting.
- Collect agenda items. Add them in and discuss with the Principal and the Chairperson before the meeting.
- Make sure reports are submitted and sent to people before the meeting. •
- Collect apologies and notify the Chair before the meeting. This allows the Chair to establish whether a guorum will be present or not for decision making purposes.

3. Minutes of Meeting

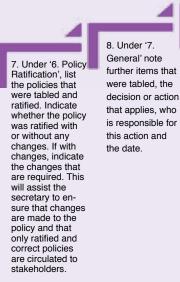

The Secretary needs to make sure that they keep accurate records of meetings because:

- They are a reminder of issues that must be followed up;
- They sort out arguments about previous decisions;
- They are a guide for the secretary and chairperson when drawing up the agenda for the next meeting;
- They help the governing body to learn from its past failures and successes, for example, when the secretary reflects on the minutes of the past year when drawing up an annual report.

12 We are committed to provide functional and modern schools that enable quality teaching and learning to protect and promote the right of every learner to quality, equitable and relevant education.

Difference between minutes of meetings and reports:

- The minutes of meetings record decisions at meetings and actions to be taken.
- Reports provide an account of progress on a project, recommendations on an investigation, or accountability for expenditure.

Some hints about taking minutes

- Listening: This is an important skill to develop. You must not only listen to what is being said, you must also make sure that you understand as well.
- Taking notes: Write down only the main points and the decisions taken. It is impossible to write down everything that is said.
- Always try to identify the main points:
 - What is the main aim of the discussion?
 - What information is important?
- Use your own words. If you do this you will find that your minutes are more accurate and complete than if you try to jot down everything a speaker says.
- Pay special attention to decisions. If necessary, ask for the decisions to be repeated.
- Ask if you are not sure. Do not hesitate to stop the meeting if you are not clear about any decisions or issues being discussed.
- Prepare the minutes soon after the meeting. People only act when they see their name in the minutes!
- The following information should be included:
 - Nature of meeting, date, time, venue
 - Names of those present
 - Names of visitors
 - Apologies
 - Summaries of decisions and discussions, including work to be followed up and people who have taken responsibility for certain tasks.
- The minutes should be written neatly in a special minute book or file, which should be kept safely and always available for reference at any time.
- Keep a register of attendance get people to sign at the meeting
- Ensure that the minutes and the supporting documentation are filed in a safe place. This information must be kept for five (5) years.

- Circulate agendas at least one week before meetings (with reports) to allow people to read through and prepare
- Send out reminders of meetings to members a week before and the day before
- During the meeting take notes that captures key decisions, actions, who is responsible, and due dates
- Present the draft minutes to the chairperson before distributing them to members
- Write all tasks in the minutes and note the person(s) responsible. Also note the due date for the task.
- Check a week before the next meeting that members have done their tasks help those who have not been able to.
- Keep files and copies of all letters, documents and policies
